 - Legg Mason Martin Currie Global Long-Term Unconstrained Fund
- (collectively the “Funds”)

What is changing?

The dealing deadline and valuation point for the Funds will change from 12 noon in London to 4PM in New York (Eastern Time) (the “Timing Change”).

When is the Timing Change?

The Timing Change is expected to be (subject to regulatory approval) reflected in the prospectus on Tuesday 14 April, 2020. However, the first day of the Timing Change is expected to be Wednesday 15 April, 2020. Any change to this date will be posted to the Legg Mason website.

Why is the Timing Change happening?

The Timing Change is designed to increase the distribution opportunities in more countries. In addition to this, it will align the dealing deadline and valuation point with other funds within Legg Mason Global Funds plc range (“LMGF”). As a result, we hope investors benefit from increased economies of scale and operational efficiencies.

What is the effect of the dealing deadline part of the Timing Change?

With regards to the amendment in the dealing deadline, please see below for a comparison of the old dealing deadline and the new dealing deadline. Examples have been given in Greenwich Mean Time (“GMT”), Eastern Standard Time (“EST”), Central European Summer Time (“CEST”) and Singapore Standard Time (“SGT”) to assist with client time zones. The example given is for an intended trade date of Friday 17 April.
